Understanding Aboriginal and Treaty Rights
Indigenous Awareness Training

MNP offers a fresh approach to Indigenous awareness training. Suitable for a wide range of audiences, including company employees, contractors and government officials, you will gain a better understanding of Indigenous peoples in Canada.

Why Take This Training?
- Your organization interacts with, or does business with Indigenous communities
- Your organization values diversity and inclusion
- You want to establish or strengthen relationships with Indigenous communities
- You want to learn about Reconciliation with Indigenous peoples and the United Nation Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIP)

Course Overview
You’ll gain the essential context you need to learn about Indigenous history and protections under the Canadian Constitution.

1. Indigenous Peoples are Nations
   • Understand who are the Indigenous peoples of Canada.
   • Discover what ‘nation’ means to better understand Indigenous self-identification.

2. Canada’s Treaty Relationship with Aboriginal Peoples
   • Understand what Aboriginal and treaty rights are.
   • Gain historical context around treaties in Canada and why these are still relevant today.
   • Understand why Aboriginal title exists and the significance of modern treaties.

3. Canada’s Assimilation Policies
   • Understand the processes of forced assimilation and the lasting impacts on Indigenous peoples, culture and communities.
   • Hear from a residential school survivor about her experiences.

4. Constitutional Protection of Aboriginal and Treaty Rights
   • Learn what recognizing and affirming Aboriginal and treaty rights in the Canadian Constitution means for Canada today.

With available volume pricing and flexible payment options, this program is suitable for businesses, governments and organizations of all sizes and needs.
